National Teacher Appreciation Week

“People in the United States started celebrating National Teacher Day in 1953 when Eleanor Roosevelt persuaded Congress to set aside a day to recognize educators. The origins of the idea for a day are unclear. They date to the early 1940s. But some references cite the advocacy of a Wisconsin teacher and other references credit the efforts of a teacher in Arkansas for first working to establish a teacher appreciation day. One of these teachers is thought to have written to Eleanor Roosevelt, urging her to take up the cause.” - Hallmark

THE BIRTH OF ASIAN CULTURE DAY

May 18th Becomes Nevada's Official Asian Culture Day

It is with great pride that we are happy to inform you that the State of Nevada has recently enacted a law giving official recognition of the more than 150 years of invaluable contributions made by Asian immigrants to the founding, development and continuing prosperity of the great State of Nevada. It has now been codified that on the 18th day of May each year, that the Governor shall execute a "Proclamation" identifying that day as "Asian Culture Day".

Culture is often defined as groups of people: their beliefs, values, and shared history. But when we look a little deeper, there's so much more that represents this word. Culture can be a beautiful handcrafted Chinese headdress, a traditional performance by Himalayan dancers, or statues and wooden carvings made from trees native to a certain region. These are the small, beautiful, palpable things that represent a people and a part of their history. We invite you to celebrate our culture and heritage with us.
